Composition and Application of this Book

◆ Characters included in this book
The book Kanji Tamago Pre-intermediate Level includes 164 characters, while the Elementary Level includes 162 characters. Together with Kanji Tamago Elementary and Pre-intermediate Level, it covers the characters required for passing levels N5 and N4 of the Japanese Language Proficiency Test.

The characters included in each section are divided into the following three categories.

“提出漢字 Featured characters”: Learners will study the reading and writing of each character.

“読める Characters for reading”: Learners will only study the meaning and reading of each character. The characters included in this category will reappear in later sections as “提出漢字 Featured characters.”

“見て、わかる Characters for recognition”: Learners will gain knowledge of the meaning of each character as a sign, but will not have to study its reading and writing. With some exceptions, the characters included in this category will reappear in later sections as “提出漢字 Featured characters.”

◆ Composition of the book
(1) Sections 1 through 15, “漢字のパーツ The components of characters”
(2) “楽しく覚えよう 1/2/3/4 Enjoy studying 1/2/3/4”: a segment that introduces the components (structural elements) of characters, phono-semantic compound characters, and mnemonic methods.
(3) “読み方に気をつけよう 1/2 Be careful with reading 1/2”: “1” is a practice reading test in which learners tend to make mistakes. “2” explains the rules of sound change.
(4) “もう少しやってみよう Let’s study some more”: a collection of questions that help learners review the contents of sections 1 through 15 and the components of characters.

(2) “提出漢字 Featured characters,” “読める Characters for reading,” and “見て、わかる Characters for recognition.”
(3) “練習 1：書いてみよう Exercise 1: Let’s write”
(4) “練習 2：やってみよう Exercise 2: Let’s try”

[(5) Column]

◆ Ruby (glosses placed alongside characters to indicate their reading, etc.)
“練習 1：書いてみよう Exercise 1: Let’s write”: in questions regarding the reading or writing of characters, ruby are not provided for characters learners have already studied.
“練習2：やってみよう Exercise 2: Let's try”: in materials that require learners to independently obtain information (e.g. figures and charts, posters, maps, etc.), ruby are not provided.

◆ How to proceed through each section

(1) Title page

The title page includes a practice test that matches the particular scene and topic of each lesson. Learners will challenge the test by guessing the meaning and pronunciation of new characters using knowledge from previously learned characters. The test on the title page also works as a review for the contents already learned. The correct answers to the test questions are found on the next page. Also, the illustration on the answer page incorporates the characters to be learnt in each lesson. Learners should try to be aware of “what they should be able to do,” by learning the characters in each lesson through the use of the illustrations that show in which scene these characters will be used. There is no need to worry if the practice test on the title page seems difficult. Learners are encouraged to check the answers to the test on the next page, and look for any characters they already know in the illustration. Then, consider as to in what situations and places those characters are used, what they mean, and how to read them.

(2) Featured characters

In this segment, learners practice each of the characters presented on the title page one by one. It is recommended to refer to the segments “漢字のはじまり The origin of characters (in Elementary level),” “漢字のきほん The basics of characters (in Elementary level),” “漢字のパーツ The components of characters,” “楽しく覚えよう Enjoy studying,” and “読み方に気をつけよう Be careful with reading,” and practice each character while considering methods to memorize it. The book presents various ideas for mnemonic devices and helps learners discover the method that matches best their abilities and preferences.

In “ポイント Points,” learners can check and verify various commonly mistaken points, such as the form of the character and its reading, the okurigana (kana added after a character to show its Japanese inflection), its components, etc.

(3) “練習1：書いてみよう Exercise 1: Let’s write”

After completing the exercises in (2), in this section, learners will practice the featured characters with the objective of acquiring reading and writing skills. Exercises in breaking characters down to their components and, vice versa, in assembling characters from various components will develop learners’ awareness of the complex structure of characters.

At the same time, the exercises will establish associations with characters learners have already studied, and will help them organize their knowledge of featured characters. Furthermore, learners will practice sorting characters in groups by their meaning, and will conduct exercises that focus on the Chinese and Japanese reading of each character and phono-semantic compound characters (phonetic components). By repeating similar drills over and over, these exercises will help learners firmly commit the featured characters to memory.

(4) “練習2：やってみよう Exercise 2: Let’s try”

In this section, learners will get hands-on practice in conditions close to actual communication situations that will help them develop abilities to obtain necessary information through reading and to write characters. In each task, learners are expected to come up with correct answers, but what is even more important is to learn the process necessary to arrive at the correct answer and to master techniques to accomplish tasks. Learners will study through practical drills what to focus on in order to obtain correct information, and how to guess the meaning of new character vocabulary.

There are two types of exercises for obtaining of information: through reading of written text, and through listening to audio materials and tying them up to written text. In both types, learners should first try to complete the tasks on their own, without using dictionaries.

In the listening comprehension exercises, learners should make sure to take the time and read through the information section before listening to the audio material. The written text will probably contain a large volume of information, and characters and vocabulary that the learners have not studied yet, but there is no need to read through these sections and try to grasp their meaning. The important thing is to take full advantage of the already acquired knowledge and obtain necessary information within the limits of one’s own understanding.
